

CASSIDY MAKES QUICK SHIFT IN BRIBERY CASE

Queens Boss and Candidate Willett Change Lawyers and Withdraw Habeas Corpus.

BEFORE SCUDDER AGAIN

Next Monday They Will Have to Give Bail and Plead to Charges.

Joseph Cassidy, William Willett Jr. and Louis T. Walter Jr. are to ask for a full hearing of the charge that they corruptly conspired to bring about the nomination of Willett as a candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court. With new lawyers, new energy and a new plan—everything new but the charges—they arranged to-day for a full investigation that will make the scandal of the November election a star event over the river.

The three appeared to-day in the Supreme Court of Queens County and asked Justice Kelly to dismiss the complaint for a writ of habeas corpus which was hastily made yesterday. Something must have happened in the Cassidy camp of a fast and strenuous nature, for Abraham Levy was on hand to represent Willett, where Col. Alexander Bacon had blossomed before, and Max D. Steuer appeared for Cassidy and Walter, succeeding Dana Wallace.

Justice Kelly granted the motion to dismiss the application for the habeas corpus writ and remanded the defendants in custody of their new counsel until Monday, when Justice Scudder is to receive their pleas. Abraham Levy, counsel for Willett, said that on Monday the defendants would ask for a continuance, and on the day set by the court he prepared to go into a detailed examination of all of the witnesses, with cross-examination galore for all hands. The delay will probably be eight days from Monday.

The three men, by their then counsel, Col. Alexander Bacon and Dana Wallace, were surrendered to a Magistrate, committed to the Queens County Jail, and then asked Justice Kelly of the Supreme Court to release them upon a writ of habeas corpus, based upon the theory that the warrants were not supported by sufficient evidence.

It is presumed that the defendants saw that they had made a legal and tactical blunder in making the application. Justice Kelly pointed out to counsel that the warrants merely constituted a charge and that the sufficiency of the charge was still open before Justice Scudder.

Justice Kelly had already sent for the papers in the case when he was apprised of the new turn. He dropped his labors and allowed the case to gravitate back to the channel in which Justice Scudder left it.

ORLANDO HARRIMAN ILL.

Brother of Late Railroad King in Serious Condition.

Orlando Harriman, only surviving brother of the late E. H. Harriman, is ill with diabetes at his apartments at the Hotel Majestic. The ailment has been troubling him for nearly a year, but only recently has been so serious as to keep him in his room.

Mr. Harriman is interested in various amusement projects at Brighton Beach. He was the promoter and actual manager of the projects at Brighton Beach, which made it a competitor for the summer amusement demand on the coast only at the west end of Coney Island.

He was for a long time at the head of the real estate department of the E. H. T. in which he is still deeply interested. Mr. Harriman was born several years earlier than his brother, the Union Pacific leader.

IRISH DANCE FOR CHARITY.

Claremen to Have Big Celebration at Annual Ball.

The annual charity entertainment and ball of the Claremen's B. P. S. Association will be held at the Lexington Opera House next Saturday evening, Nov. 25. It will be one of the season's strongest Irish affairs.

The concert by the famous Prof. Ward's Orchestra will commence at 8 o'clock. The entertainment conducted by the White Hats Actors' Union under the supervision of James L. Barry will follow, after which the ball will be in full swing.

There will be Irish dancing in a separate hall.

MRS. HOLME TO TESTIFY.

Defendant's Statement in Alienation Suit to Be Taken in Germany.

A commission to take the testimony of Mrs. Lizzie Hastings Holme, now in Germany, who is being sued for $50,000 in the Supreme Court by Mrs. Sarah Stieglitz Rogers Dunn for alleged alienation of the affections of the latter's husband, James T. Dunn, was granted by Justice Searby to-day.

Mrs. Holme is the wife of Leicester Holme, who was secretary to Mayor Hugh J. Grant and later a City Court Judge. Mrs. Dunn's first husband was "Rexie" Rosenbaum, a wealthy San Franciscoan who committed suicide. The case has been dragging along some time.

"Divine Sarah," at 67, Would Wed Again, But She Dare Not Invite Public Laugh

Mme. Bernhardt Still Holds Her Belief in Woman's Love as the Great Redeeming Force of the World, and Her Life, Without Sacrifice, Full of Ennui and Selfishness.

"I Believe in Love," Says the Ever-Young Actress, and Ten Commandments Are Too Many—Motherhood Makes Woman More Than Man's Inferior.

NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

Sarah Bernhardt says that she is not going to marry again, notwithstanding persistent rumor, which has made her the fiancée of a twenty-six-year-old actor in her company.

In all the years NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH that Mme. Bernhardt has been before the public the versatility of her genius and of her press agents has made her everything but ridiculous. The public has never been permitted a smile at the expense of the imperishable Sarah, and I believe Bernhardt is far too intelligent to ring down the curtain of her phenomenal career on a laugh.

At sixty-seven a woman may not be too old to fall in love, but in the eyes of the public, if not her own, she's not quite young enough to marry.

Undoubtedly Sarah believes in love; also in marriage, though she once remarked that Ten Commandments are too many. In her most recent visit to the United States Mme. Bernhardt made a formal confession of faith to me during a trip I made with her from New York to Chicago.

WOMAN'S LOVE THE GREAT REDEEMING FORCE OF THE WORLD

"I believe in love," she said then. "It is the great, redeeming force of the world. A woman's life without love is a life without the spirit of devotion that is the quintessence of femininity, is full of ennui and selfishness. Motherhood is the greatest experience of any woman's life."

Sarah, at the time she spoke, was a great-grandmother, the daughter of her son, Maurice Bernhardt, having become the mother of a little girl two years before.

Sarah's comments on love had grown out of a discussion of the character of Monna Vanna, who, she insisted, did not really love her husband, or she would not have been willing to sacrifice her honor as a wife to relieve her beleaguered and starving city.

"Monna Vanna had that tranquil conjugal affection, which is not romance nor poetry, but which is the foundation of many homes," Mme. Bernhardt declared. "Perhaps it is the best foundation for marriage." She added, "For when you build in the tropics of passion, you have to look out for earthquakes."

"The soul of Monna Vanna burned with a great devotion to her people. This devotion to humanity is very frequent among women, though it is not generally understood. Love—passionate love—has been judged to be the maligning and motive of all our actions. But women are capable of the greatest acts of devotion and sacrifice for a people, a cause or an idea."

GREAT SITUATION MAKES A GREAT WOMAN.

"I do not mean the exceptional woman—I am not sure that there are any exceptional women. In my opinion the great situation, the great need, draws the great man or woman to meet it from the mass of commonplace citizens, takes him or her, hitherto much like the rest, and makes them over to its requirements."

"The courage of a woman, her devotion, her sacrifice, will rise as high as its source, the need of the man or the people which calls it forth."

"Here are those who think this public devotion should have political expression. The question of votes for women, while not yet serious in France, is of the hour in England and the United States. The laws in your country are very just to women. In France they leave very much to be desired."

"With everything that concerns the personal control of her fortune or earnings, or the equal guardianship of her children, I am in entire accord. But to vote I have no desire. Politics is so dirty. And for one who holds it there are a thousand unreasoning slaves."

"To me, I must confess, the idea of a woman deputy, of a woman minister, seems ridiculous. Not that I question her capacity. God would not have confided the future to a being he found inferior—but can you imagine a woman minister making a speech from the tribune when she was to have a child in a few weeks?"

You urge that there is nothing in maternity which should excite any but too profound feelings of reverence and awe, and that woman should not yield her political rights through fear of contact with debased minds. I agree with you as to the hopeless debasement of those who find anything to laugh at in the most sacred fact of existence. Napoleon ordered his soldiers to present

FARRAR SCANDAL INQUIRY PROBABLE; FACTS MAY BE TOLD

Missing Minister Still Royal Rector and Cannot Be Removed Except on Charges.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—When Rev. Frederick Perceval Farrar, King George's chaplain, disappeared after being "given time" to get out of England, it was generally assumed that the royal court would be spared the embarrassment of any raking over of the accusations responsible for his disgrace. It transpires to-day that this was a mistake. "There probably will have to be an investigation."

It seems that the young clergyman refused to resign the rectorship of Sandringham when asked to do so and held it when he vanished. His chaplaincy to the King was held only during His Majesty's pleasure and from this he was dismissed.

Of the Sandringham rectorship, however, he can only be deprived upon the verdict of an ecclesiastical court and no such verdict can be rendered until formal charges are preferred and substantiated.

Consequently there is every prospect of exactly the publicity which the "Majestic" rumor that Farrar is on his way to Canada under an assumed name is generally credited.

Of the Sandringham rectorship, however, he can only be deprived upon the verdict of an ecclesiastical court and no such verdict can be rendered until formal charges are preferred and substantiated.

Consequently there is every prospect of exactly the publicity which the "Majestic" rumor that Farrar is on his way to Canada under an assumed name is generally credited.

Consequently there is every prospect of exactly the publicity which the "Majestic" rumor that Farrar is on his way to Canada under an assumed name is generally credited.

Consequently there is every prospect of exactly the publicity which the "Majestic" rumor that Farrar is on his way to Canada under an assumed name is generally credited.

WIFE DECLARES BLOODGOOD SPENT $2,500 OVERNIGHT

Young Banker and Wife Bring Counter Actions in Plea for Divorce.

Harry L. Bloodgood, connected with the banking firm of H. F. Bachman & Co., No. 5 Wall street, and a member of the exclusive Racquet and Tennis and St. Anthony clubs, has sued his wife, Helen Hamlen Bloodgood, of No. 321 Amsterdam avenue, for divorce, and received in answer to his complaint counter-charges alleging cruelty and non-support.

At the home of Mrs. Bloodgood it was stated by a woman friend this afternoon that the young woman had retaliated with both a separation and divorce suit. The couple were married two years ago and, according to the wife's affidavit, the last year of her married life was strenuous in the extreme.

She charges that she gave her fashionable and chubby young husband $250 to invest for her two weeks after they were married, and that "the lost, used or disposed of the $250 in one night." This is one of the acts of cruelty alleged in the wife's countercharges.

Mrs. Bloodgood further avers that when, in February, 1910, she reminded her husband that since their marriage he had not paid the rent of their suites in the Holland House, the Hotel Willard and other places, he struck her, knocked her to the floor, tore her dress, buried her on a bed and threw a desk on top of her. This attack so alarmed her, Mrs. Bloodgood alleges, that she fled by way of the fire escape to an adjoining apartment.

From January to April, 1910, continues Mrs. Bloodgood in her affidavit, her husband frequently struck her with his fists and boxed her ears. They were living at the Holland House at this time. Later on at the Hotel Willard he again beat her. On Christmas Eve, 1910, alleges Mrs. Bloodgood, her husband tore off her clothes, tore out her hair by handfuls and threw her out of the apartment. All this time, the wife swears, he failed to contribute to her support though he was earning more than $100 a week.

Mrs. Bloodgood asks for alimony pending the determination of her husband's suit and her counter-suits. She does not ask for any specific amount, but states that her husband is able to belong to expensive and exclusive clubs, to dress in the height of fashion, to drive fine automobiles, to frequent expensive hotels and cafes and to maintain an elaborately furnished apartment on West Sixty-sixth street.

Mrs. Bloodgood cites as evidence of her husband's prosperity that he was able to pay $75 for a box for the first three games of the World's series between the Giants and Athletics.

In 111 Health, Ends Life. Perry Redmond, thirty-one, a baker, of No. 150 Ralph avenue, Brooklyn, committed suicide early to-day by cutting his throat with a razor. He had returned a week ago from a sanatorium and was in poor health.

LUSITANIA BREAKS RECORD FOR RAPID CROSS-SEA TRIPS

Big Cunarder Has Made Fifteen and a Half Voyages in Eleven Months.

The hardest worked steamship on the seven seas is the big Cunarder, Lusitania. When she noosed her way through the fog in the East river, this morning, and slid into her dock at 10 o'clock, she completed fifteen and a half round trips across the Atlantic in a few days over eleven months. On her return to Liverpool, she will have made sixteen round trips in eleven months and seventeen days. No liner has ever been so rushed before.

There was a big passenger list, but few notables were aboard. Though the trip was rough, the Lusitania plunged through the waves at top speed. She would have docked an hour earlier, but for the thick atmosphere in the river. Louis Tracy, the novelist, was a passenger. He has not been in the United States for eight years. One of the objects of his trip is to look at a hole in the ground out in Colorado, which is the grave of a large chunk of his earnings as an author. He was persuaded that the hole in the ground was a mine.

J. Norton Griffith, M. P., a bustling type of young Englishman, arrived on the Lusitania on his way to Vancouver, B. C., and Canadian cities. He is working to advance a plan to encourage immigration from England to Canada. Although he is a soldier and was aide-camp to Lord Roberts in the Boer War, he is essentially a man of peace.

"My idea," he said, "is that the upbuilding of the British empire, especially on this side of the world, will tend to consolidate the Anglo-Saxon race. Such a consolidation would be the most powerful factor that could be exerted in enforcing world peace."

Among the passengers were F. C. Whitney, the producer of light opera; Sam C. Hildreth, the veteran American horseman, who is contemplating a career as a trainer on the English turf; Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson and the Countess Langier Villars.

FIRE CHIEF HURLED FROM HIS SPEEDING AUTO BY COLLISION

On Way to Blaze Langdon of Brooklyn and Chauffeur Are Tossed Over Fence.

Their little red automobile hit broadside by a heavy limousine as they were speeding to a fire on Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn, early to-day. Battalion Chief James Langdon and his driver, Joseph Sullivan, were hurled from the car over an iron fence into the dry basin of a fountain. Both lay so still that Policeman Carpenter of the Cuyler street station, who saw the crash, thought they were dead.

The collision occurred at Bedford and Division avenues, where Bedford avenue makes a sudden turn. The limousine belonged to the Bryant Motor Car Company of No. 41 West Sixty-third street, Manhattan, and was driven by Henry Graden of Halcyon Road, New Rochelle. The only passenger was Daniel Ford of No. 21 West Fortieth street, Manhattan.

Both Langdon and Sullivan were painfully cut and bruised. Graden entered slight scratches. Ford was uninjured. Policeman Carpenter, seeing the smash, ran to the station house, a block away, told Lieut. Lyman and hastened back with Policemen Stoney and Ohio. When the officers arrived Langdon and Sullivan were just climbing back over the three-foot fence that surrounds the fountain.

Langdon is Acting Deputy Fire Chief of the Williamsburg district.

TWO KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK.

Others Badly Injured When Cars Crash on Southern Railway.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Two men were killed and a number of other persons were badly injured in a head-on collision early to-day at Scotland, Ga., between passenger train No. 14 of the Southern Railway, from Chattanooga and Atlanta, bound to Jacksonville, and an extra train, bound north. Engineer Brantley of the passenger train and an express messenger were killed.

Saturday Specials

$4. Roman Striped $1.98 Messaline Silk Blouse

Strikingly stylish—beautiful and trustworthy, undoubtedly just what you have in mind for the Thanksgiving festivities, only way below what you expected to pay. New Callot Model They'd regularly sell for $4.00, but if you wish, you'll take advantage of this pre-holiday price. The model, copied from an imported Callot design, fine white lace yoke and cuffs. Spreading silk reverse of plain messaline which also trims opposite side—rose pearl buttons. King's blue and black stripe, purple and black, copenhagen and black or brown and black.

Mail orders filled—None C.O.D.

Coat Reductions

$18 Reversible Coats $20 Polo Long Coats $22.50 Kersey Coats

One Model Like Picture $10.75

An event too important to miss. These stunning coats change prices to-morrow from $18, $20 and $22.50 to $10.75. Belated cold weather has caused stocks to become over-crowded and go they must—even at a sacrifice.

25 Distinct Styles

Compare them with the high-priced garments of other houses are offering, and you'll better appreciate this sale. Excellent materials, superior workmanship and a variety most captivating. Mixtures, kerseys, vicuna cloths and plaid back cloths. Varies only trimmed in velvet, fringe, frogs and braids, the majority serving the double purpose of day or evening wear.

Alterations FREE SALE AT ALL THREE STORES

Bedell

14 and 16 West 14th St.—New York 460 and 462 Fulton Street—Brooklyn 645-651 Broad Street—Newark, N. J.

A SEVEN-TIME WORLD WANT WORKS ALL THE WEEK. ORDER ONE TO-DAY AND PROSPER.

Casperfield & Cleveland
Established 1857.
144 Bowery, Bowery Savings Bank Block
NORTH OF GRAND ST. STATION.

DIAMOND RINGS
1-4 Carat, $9
1-2 " 18
3-4 " 27
1 " 37

Here color, very brilliant and not to be compared with the "cracked ice" offered so cheaply elsewhere. NO CALL EARLY IF YOU WANT ONE. We also have many splendid Diamond Rings that merit your attention. They are all first quality. Elgin Watch, 25-year case, $5

Open Evenings Till 7; Saturdays Till 10.

POST'S SATURDAY DRESS SALE

Thanksgiving Day next Thursday! Here's the Dress that will contribute to your enjoyment and smart appearance. An exceptionally pretty model—daintily made and superbly finished. Just the garment for the festive occasion.

$9.50

An actual $17.50 value.

Satin messaline, in all the choicest shades that have found acceptance among the smartest dressers. Kimono sleeves, round Dutch collar of lace, dainty piping of contrasting color, tastefully trimmed with silk fringe in harmonizing tints.

Seventeen distinctive styles are shown in the full range of sizes for women and misses, each style having some particular charm of its own.

The material alone could not be had at the price for which POST sells the complete dress, ready to wear.

Alterations FREE

J. L. POST

S. W. Cor. 14th Street and Union Square

Used Regularly on Thousands of Tables, and Will Soon Be Used on Thousands More—

Eddys Old English Sauce

It's great for meats, game and fish, 10c.

At Grocers and Delicatessen Stores. Made by E. Fritchard, 631 Spring St., N.Y.